The Real Estate of STEEL SEMPLE, Deceased.

THIS LAND is situated within 2 and 3 miles of Pittsburgh, and is divided into small Lots of from five, six, ten and twelve acres.

The survey and draft are now completed, and the lines of the Lots and lanes, plainly and distinctly marked on the ground.

This land is fertile, near to the city, and convenient to good roads. It is so divided as to be convenient for gardners, persons desirous of attending market, or to farmers of small capital. As Out-lots, they are well suited to persons residing in the city.

They are offered for Sale on a credit of from twelve to eighteen months. The plan can be seen at my office.

Valuable Real estate for Sale.

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased I NOW OFFER FOR SALE,

The Farm on which he resided, on the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brook County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 50 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillage part with fencing and building timber. There are between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which in good meadow land. The buildings consist in two large dwelling houses and a log barn with under cellars of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River, three miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of the farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.

Caution to the Public,

DR. LEE'S (WINDHAM)

BILIOUS PILLS,

OR

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THE above named pills, are the true and original patent Lee's Pills, and are the first Pills for which a patent was ever granted in America.

The universal esteem in which these Pills have been held for many years, as a mild, safe, and efficacious Family Medicine, and the great and increasing demand for them, in most parts of the U. States and West Indies, has induced several wicked and unprincipled dealers in medicines, (particularly in Philadelphia) to make and sell Pills, which they style Lee's Windham Bilious Pills; making use of a copy of his bill of directions, &c. and offering the same for sale, as the genuine Lee's Pills, whereas the true and original Lee's Pills were never prepared in any place except in Windham, (Con.) nor by any persons except the proprietors of the patent. To guard against deceptions of this kind, the public are requested to observe, that each box of the true Lee's Pills, is enclosed in an elegant stereotype label, with these words on the sides thereof; Lee's genuine Windham Bilious Pills: and on the end of the label, the words, Samuel Lee, Patentee, &c. I. Thompson, agent, joint proprietor, &c. and should any be offered for sale without said label on them, the purchaser may be assured that they are counterfeit and not the genuine Lee's Pills. To those who are in the habit of using the genuine pills, the fraud is easily discovered by their effects, and those who may wish to make use of them may guard against counterfeits and imposters, and always be sure of the genuine pills, by observing that they purchase none unless they are enclosed in the label aforesaid.

The proprietors have for several years past expended large sums, in order to break down counterfeiters and dishonest dealers, but are yet convinced that there are some, who not only disregard the laws and the rights of others, but also the injuries they do to the community, by selling their own dangerous compositions, for the genuine Lee's Pills, whenever they think they can do it without being detected & brought to justice. For the purpose of putting a stop to such nefarious traffic, the proprietors have been at very great expence in procuring the stereotype label, and the public may rest assured, that no genuine pills, will be sold without the label being around each box; and as a further inducement to the public to be on their guard against the designs of those dealers in medicines, who keep such counterfeit pills in their shops. The proprietors hereby offer a reward of Three Hundred Dollars, to any person who will prove to conviction, the person or persons who shall make & sell such counterfeit pills and as proper steps have been taken to discover those persons who sell such counterfeit pills, and on whom suspicion already rests, it is hoped that their names will soon be before the public, as dealers in counterfeit medicines, and their persons before the district court of the U. States, to answer for an infringement of the patent.

The approbation of medical gentlemen and the opinion of many thousands of respectable persons who have experienced the good effect of the genuine Lee's Pills, as a mild, safe and efficacious purgative, for removing jaundice, Headach, indigestion, costiveness, cholic, autumnal fevers, and all Billious complaints, are it is presumed, a sufficient recommendation to those who may wish to make use of them in families or elsewhere.

The genuine Lee's Pills, are sold by the most of those druggists in the U. States who choose to keep good articles of medicine in preference to base ones A deposit of the genuine pills, will always be kept at the store of Thatcher and Thompson, N. W. corner of Market and Second street; by the proprietors of the patent, where druggists and others, may always be certain of obtaining the true pills, on the same terms as of the patentee.

Agent to the Patentee.

LONDON, March 18.—Bonaparte.—In the last page of our paper will be found a curious letter, copied from the Morning Chronicle of to day, and purporting to be addressed to Sir Hudson Lowe, by order of Bonaparte.

He tells us through count Montholon, that "he repaired voluntarily and freely to England, with the view of living there a private individual, under the protection of the British laws."

He describes the convention of the 2d of August as the coalition of the four greatest powers for the oppression of a single man.

He then appeals to each of the sovereigns, of Austria, Russia and Prussia, and conceives, that if he had been in the power of either, he would have been entitled not only to protection but gratitude.

When he enumerates his titles, and his rise from the consulate to the imperial power, the treaty he signed with us, the Ultimatum at Chatillon, it may be asked why he forfeited all these, and why he preferred the gratification of an ambition, restless and remorseless, which would not let any part of Europe remain at peace, to the fulfilment of those duties, to the proper use of that power, by which he might have earned the blessings, instead of the curses and execrations of mankind?

He enters into a detail of the duress in which he is kept—of the severity of his surveillance—of the inaccessible character of the Island of St. Helena, and of the other privations to which he is subject.

The renown of this extraordinary man less owing to his talents than the vicissitudes that marked his reign, is destined to decrease from age to age, and when he shall be despoiled of all foreign lustre it will be seen that he was more favored by the audacity of his enterprises, the extent of his resources, and the valour of his troops, than by his skill or foresight—that the eclat of his first victories was more than effaced by his reverses; and that he has left no durable monument, no useful institution, that can compensate for the real losses and the countless calamities he brought upon Mankind.

We cannot help differing with those who are so loud to blame Lord Holland for bringing forward his motion yesterday, relative to the treatment of Bonaparte. For it drew forth a decisive and official refutation of all the complaints of ill treatment alledged against our government, it exposed the mean and base arts which had been resorted to, to calumniate us, and it proved beyond the possibility of doubt the absolute necessity of applying to Bonaparte the most watchful and incessant restrictions. For the sake of more clearness, we shall state the heads of the charges (A.) and secondly the refutations, (B.)

(A) 1. The charges are, that he has been exposed to additional restrictions with respect to the space allotted to him for exercise.

2. That at those hours most proper for exercise, all ingress or egress from Bonaparte's residence, Longwood, are interdicted.

3. That he was prevented from procuring such books as he may want, or from subscribing to the Journals.

4. That he is not allowed to send a sealed letter to the Prince Regent, nor to correspond with nor receive letters from his wife, friend, or relatives.

5. That he is debarred the means of writing an account of his former acts.

6. That the sum for his maintenance has been reduced to 8000*l.* a year, and that the supplies for his table are scanty and inadequate.

Such are the charges. The refutations are as follows:

(B.) During the first period of his confinement he had a circumference of no less than 12 miles to ride or walk in without the attendance of any officer—which range had not been reduced till it had been found that he had abused that confidence reposed in him by tampering with the inhabitants. That range was now reduced to eight miles instead of twelve and within that boundary he might at present walk without the attendance of any Officer. Beyond those limits he might go over any part of the island, attended by an officer of rank not lower than a Captain in the army.

2. Though he has not free passage through the island after sun-set, he may at any hours walk in his garden. Sentinels were stationed there after sun-set, and, he expressed his dislike to walk when he was thus watched. Sir H. Lowe, with every desire to attend to his wishes, after that, fixed the sentinels in places where they would not look on him. Would any one wish these sentinels to be removed altogether just at the time when it was most likely that he should escape?

3. Soon after Buonaparte's arrival at St. Helena, he expressed a wish for some books to complete his library, and a list was made out by General Buonaparte himself, and transmitted to this country.—This list was sent to an eminent French bookseller in this town, with orders to supply such of the books as he had, and to obtain the rest from other booksellers. As several of the books were not to be obtained in London, the bookseller was desired to write to Paris for them. He accordingly obtained some of them from Paris, but others of them could not be obtained. These books to the amount of 13 or 1400*l.* worth, were sent, with an explanation of the circumstances which prevented the others from having been sent

The newspapers have been refused from a knowledge that attempts have been made, through them, to hold correspondence with him.

4. He might have sent any letter to the Prince Regent, but not sealed. The Ministers, who are responsible, must know the nature of such a letter, but it would certainly have reached his Royal Highness.—He may likewise send and receive letters from his wife or relations, but they must be opened; they will then be sent as addressed. Only one of his relations, his brother Joseph, has written to him, and that letter was forthwith forwarded to him.

5. No attempt has been made to prevent him from writing any account of his life.

6. Eight thousand a year has been deemed a fair permanent allowance for the maintenance; but Sir Hudson Lowe thinking the establishment of Bonaparte could not be provided for suitably under 12,000*l.* a year, the latter sum was immediately agreed to.

With respect to provisions and wine, it need only be stated, that for nine persons, the number connected with Bonaparte, there are allowed eleven dozen of wine, (Claret, Champagne, &c.) weekly.

We refer our readers to the very clear, able, and convincing speech of Lord Bathurst.

Such then, is the manner in which we treat Bonaparte—a manner in which, if there be any room for condemnation we are quite sure it will not be on the score of its being too illiberal, harsh or vindictive. Thanks we repeat, are due to Lord Holland for affording so official and decisive an opportunity of putting down the charges brought against us.

(By particular request.)

From the (Westchester) Federalist.

The aspect of Pennsylvania, at the present juncture, opens to every reflecting mind, the most extensive field for speculation—it presents for consideration objects the most interesting—it offers an uncircumscribed perspective, and an horizon clouded, though not altogether obscured. Never was it more important to dive into futurity, and never did any futurity seem much more impenetrable. Never therefore, was it more excusable to be lost in conjectures. When many occurrences are probable, it can excite no great surprize that their consequences cannot be rationally anticipated. If we are not allowed to read in the book of destiny, it falls to our lot, at least, to observe the common course of events, to calculate their different chances, and, from the whole, to draw salutary and interesting inferences.

Two candidates for the office of chief magistrate of the commonwealth are now before the people of Pennsylvania. The election takes place on the 14th of October next. Neither of the candidates is federal; one has been nominated at the seat of government by a motley assemblage of senators, representatives, judges, deputy attornies, justices, and hangers on, styling themselves the convention of New School Democrats—the other has been brought forward under the auspices of a convention of democrats, friends to reform, who call themselves the Old School. Considerable diversity of opinion seems to exist among our federal brethern as to the line of conduct which they ought to pursue, on the present occasion—whether they should appoint delegates to meet in convention at Harrisburgh and nominate a candidate of their own, or whether they should, by uniting with that section of the democratick party whose principles and professions are more in coincidence with their own, secure the election of a man who will, most certainly make a change in the administration of state affairs——A month ago the former opinion seemed generally to prevail; meetings were held in Bucks county, and in some wards in Philadelphia, recommending measures for the nomination of a federal candidate—This was to have been expected—We know with what reluctance a federalist will give his vote for a man whose principles have not always been pure—whose sentiments have not always been in perfect concurrence with his own, and whose political life has not always been firm and unblamable; yet we know that the federalists, as friends of their country, will always be ready to raise their voice in favour of any measure that will be likely to promote its interests. Accordingly, the propriety of uniting with the old school in support of Mr. Heister, seems now to be admitted. In another column of our paper will be found the proceedings of a large and respectable meeting of the Federalists of the Northern Liberties of Philadelphia; we recommend their resolutions to the serious attention of our readers.

As to our selves, as editors of a federal paper, we believe it to be our duty, from a consideration of all circumstances, to support the election of Mr. Heister; we have no serious objection to him; on the contrary, we find much in his late conduct to approve, and little to condemn: he has for the last three or four years, and it is his best recommendation to a federalist, arrayed himself in opposition to that system of intrigue and underhand work—of caucusing and corruption which has so signally disgraced the American name, and made one's self ashamed to call one's self an American.

With respect to Mr. Findlay, it would seem that those who selected him, vainly confident of obtaining by their mere nod, 20,000 of a majority, have, by a most intolerant and almost billingsgate address and manifesto, arrogantly proscribed and set at defiance every federalist and moderate reflecting democrat, who chooses to think for himself. They have closed the doors to reconciliation, oil and water could more easily amalgamate than federalists with such men; the best interests of the state and those of the United States forbid it.

GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1817.

At an election for Officers of the EAGLE FIRE COMPANY, held on Saturday the 3d inst. the following persons were elected to serve the ensuing year.

President.—Anthony Ernest.
Secretary.—J. H. Lambdin.
Captain.—James R. Butler.
Lieutenant.—D. S. Scully.
Engineer.—William Eichbaum.
Assistant Engineer.—John Reno.
Directors.—William M'Knight, William Hill, Joseph Roseman, James Johnston, John Caldwell, William Graham, Alexander M'Clurg, Irwin Wallace.

NEW-YORK, April 29.

The United States ship Ontario, captain Downs, has received orders to prepare for sea with all possible despatch. We understand she is to carry out despatches.

On Sunday the United States brig Boxer, captain Porter, sailed for the Gulf of Mexico. Septimus Tyler, Esq. went out in her as agent, to the president of Hayti, to demand satisfaction for a captured vessel, and the execution of an American.

TRENTON, April 28.

We are informed that the week before last, a man with a light waggon and a pair of horses, in attempting to pass through a tract of pine wood on fire, near New Egypt Monmouth county, was suddenly so involved, through a change of the wind, by the surrounding flames, as to be unable to extricate himself, until he was so badly burnt as to render his life despaired of.—One of the horses was burnt to death, and the waggon destroyed by the fire.

PROVIDENCE, Aprill 25.

Latest from Cadiz.—Capt. Townsend, arrived here in the Viper, in 29 days from Cadiz, informs that two Spanish expeditions were fitting out at that place—one was said to be destined for Lima—the other for Havanna and Vera Cruz—and were expected to sail in a very short time each one accompanied by 500 troops, infantry and cavalry. No political news of moment at Cadiz.

Capt. T. farther informs us, that the Washington 74, Capt. Creighton, the sloop of war Peacock, capt. Rogers, and the sloop Spark, capt. Nicholson, sailed from Cadiz for Gibraltar, on the 21st of March. The remainder of the squadron were understood to be at Port Mahon. Every thing was tranquil and secure in the Mediterranean; and the officers and crews of the fleet were in fine health and spirits.

Captain T. is the bearer of despatches from Commodore Chauncey to the Secretary of the Navy, and from Mr. Erving, Ambasador at Madrid, to the Secretary of State.

FROM THE PHILADELPHIA TRUE AMERICAN.

LECTURES OF FATHER PAUL.

"Yes," said the man in black, "I have seen a great deal, and among all that I have witnessed, nothing has given me more pain, than to behold a young man, who might have passed through life with usefulness and honor, hurried away by passion, in the pursuit of imaginary pleasure, to a premature grave.

"I attended an exhibition at the academy some years ago. Among the students there appeared one who seemed to be about sixteen. His forum was very perfect; his features expressive, open and ingenuous; his manners unaffected and modest. A lively blush spread over his cheek, on appearing before so large an assembly. It was easy to see that he was the preceptor's pride; and a sensible young lady beside me, observed that "he was indeed a lovely boy." He spake: Every ear was fixed with attention. I enquired who was the happy father of so promising a son; and learned that he was an old friend, distinguished for his wealth, learning and virtues, and that ALFRED was his only child.

"Four years after I saw him. His form and port were those of a man. His countenance was strikingly interesting, and his manners graceful and prepossessing; yet I thought his eye flashed those fires, that indicated a temper which the fondness of parental affection had neglected to chasten. Love destroys more than hatred. The unwise indulgence of the desires of youth is a secret poison, wearing the appearance of kindness, but proving in its consequences the most afflicting cruelty. Can those who were not restrained in childhood, be expected, when freed from parental authority, if their passions have gained a seven-fold force, to control them? Those who have never been taught to obey, seldom know how to govern themselves or others. What is a young man of twenty, master of his own will, through the indulgence of those who should govern him; his judgement yet weak, his fancy warm, and his passions wild, but a vessel upon the ocean, without a rudder? And what but a miracle can save him from destruction?

"Another year ran down the course of time, and mingled its moments in the ocean of eternity, when I returned to the city.—Passing a public house, lo! I heard the well recolledted voice of Alfred singing in tones sweet harmonious, but rendered tremulous by inebriety—

> "Can sorrow from the goblet flow,
> Or pain from beauty's eye"

"Evening came: I spent it with his father, with whom I was formerly intimate.—But amidst all the luxuries that wealth could furnish, and the utmost exertion of politeness, it could not be concealed that the minds of my friends were exercised with the most painful inquietude. "Have you seen Alfred this afternoon?" said his mother wistfully; "he has not been in to tea." The conversation would often languish: the father seemed musing, and when one of the company spoke of the exhibition where Alfred had gained so much honour, a tear stole down the cheek of the good man. Every noise at the door seemed to startle them. An impression it was evident rested upon their minds, that although they were wretched at his absence, they should dread his return.

"Ye votaries of pleasure, ye gay sons of riot and dissipation, do you ever reflect on the anguish you implant in your parents' breasts: or are your hearts with all your affected sensibility and refinement, harder than marble? You would risk your lives to take that of the man who should wantonly wound your father's happiness or your mother's peace, and pride yourself upon the violation of your country's laws for a purpose which you would deem so honourable: And yet, inconsistent mortals, do not you, in the pursuit of your intemperate pleasures, violate those laws to make them wretched, and to bring down their grey hairs in sorrow to the grave?

"At half past nine I left my inhospitable anxious friends. The moon was up, but flying clouds obscured its brightness: Yet could I distinguish among the number that I met, a young woman, tricked out in the most flaunting apparel, supporting by her arm the half-senseless Alfred. With hurried step they were hastening to the chamber of vice and wretchedness.

"Yet another year came, and my health permitted me again to visit the city. I passed thro' the street where Alfred's father lived, and behold at the door stood a plain chaise; a servant sat holding the reins. I knew it to be a carriage of a physician, and easily guessed at the remainder. In less than a week notice was given of his death. Consumption had taken Alfred to his tomb, and his parents were left childless.

DIED, on Monday night last, Mrs. MARGARET M'GUNNEGLE, in the 75th year of her age, consort of Mr. George M'Gunnegle.

A SUPPLEMENT

To an ordinance, entitled, "An ordinance making certain regulations in cases of fire, and to prevent fires from breaking out."

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the citizens of Pittsburgh, in select and common council assembled, That it shall be the duty of the street commissioners, in their respective wards, to examine the stoves, stove-flues, stove-pipes and chimnies, which are not built and constructed agreeably to the provisions contained in the ordinance, to which this is a supplement, and make report of the same, at least once in every two months, to the mayor of said city, under a penalty of twenty dollars, on the street commissioner neglecting or refusing to comply with the provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION 2. And be it further ordained and enacted by the authority aforesaid, That so much of the said ordinance as relates to ashes or supplies, be, and the same is hereby repealed.

Ordained and enacted into a law, in council, the 30th day of April, A. D. 1817.

WILLIAM WILKINS, President of the common council.
GEORGE STEVENSON, President pro tem of the select council.

Attest—S. ENGLES, clerk com. council.

The Genuine Japan Varnish

FOR BOOTS, SHOES, &c.

J. BYRNE,

Respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has commenced the manufacture of the real JAPAN VARNISH for boots, shoes, carriage harnessing, ladies morrocco shoes, &c.

This inestimable composition unrivalled for its superior excellence, as well as being beneficial to the leather, produces the most beautiful and shining jet black ever beheld.

Its qualities have perhaps never before been concentrated in any other composition. It acts as an emolient, rendering the leather soft, pliant and durable—Is not subject to turn foxed as other compounds do—Is suitable to all climates and seasons—When polished, will not soil the whitest linen, and the cost of purchase is four fold repaid in the durability imparted to the leather by the lubricating quality of the Varnish.

Gentlemen sensible of the good effects of personal appearance will give this a decided preference to any thing ever before offered to the public.

The Japan Varnish is put up in Jars at 50 cents each, with proper directions for using, with the makers name affixed in his own chirographic to the label on each jar, and sealed on the cork with wax impressed with the initials J. B.

Sold at Byrne's Umbrella manufactory, Fourth street—Pittsburgh—where all orders will be gratefully received and punctually executed and a liberal allowance given to retailers.

Pittsburgh, May 2, 1817.
